Biographical/Historical Data:

Macon Junior College, Macon College, and Macon State College published student works within individual publications over the years. Pathways was originally published in house by MJC/MC/MSC until picked up by Pearson Custom Publishing in 1999. Pathways developed from the Humanities department alone. Timepiece began in 1971 with the publication of student's creative works including artwork in various media. It transitioned to the Fall Line Review in 2000.

Scope and Content:

All publications are of student works throughout the year designated for each item. They are published creative writing for class, student artwork, and general writing. 3 additional works based out of departments are included in this series. One being a publication of undergraduate research, another a collection of honor's student writings, and lastly a student capstone project.
